Our Goals: We continue to work towards our classroom agreements of mutual respect, attentive listening, and responsibility to participate.

Math: We are wrapping up our unit on number relations and will begin data management.

Reading: In addition to decoding (sounding out words), it is very important that the students comprehend what they are reading. After reading a book they should be able to retell in detail what they read. When reading in French I would have them stop at the end of each sentence or page to check for understanding.

Writing: Our focus in class is letter writing, so for the home writing journals they will be writing a letter to a soldier 😊

Some ideas to “bump up” their writing are:

- Use connecting words such as: and, because, also, then, in order to add detail
- Please review the Dolch words at the front of their journals and ensure they are spelling them correctly in their journals so that they become familiar with them
- Vary sentence starters and add descriptive adjectives
